WARS THAT DON'T END

Before the world has learned to accept the idea of wars that aren't declared it is going to have to get used to wars that don't end.

It is difficult to believe, for instance, that the war between Japan and China, which had no formal beginning, is going to have a formal conclusion, either. More likely, the war will drag on for years. Japan will need to protect its newly won territory constantly with arms.

That is what Italy faces in Ethiopia—an interminable conquest, with no peace. With the difference that Europe has done no actual fighting, that is what it has been going through since the World war, too. The armistice put an end to mass slaughter, but the war has continued, with Germany regaining most of its losses and threatening to take more.

The day when a war was declared, fought by specialists and either won or lost is past and gone, even if the world isn't ready to face the fact yet.

THIS WON'T HURT A BIT

Apropos of the latest grab for political power—President Getulio Vargas' Brazilian coup—why is it that dictators always sneak over the fast one by telling how much they love democracy?

President Vargas, for instance, explains he has set up what looks exactly like another military dictatorship because he wants to save popular government. The last government he set up—after he made himself president by overpowering the opponent who beat him in the 1930 election—probably was going to save popular government, too.

Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy, Col. de la Rocque in France, Sir Oswald Mosely in England and all the other undergraduate and graduate students of dictatorship are alike in wanting to save democracy. The trouble is they want to do it by establishing autocracy.

Either they're all monstrous kidders, or democracy is a word they never looked up in the dictionary.

YOU GO FIRST

This is not a profound observation on international affairs, but it's one significantly easy to defend.

Europe's not afraid to do anything the United States isn't afraid to do. Whether there's a bear to be grabbed by the tail, a tightrope to walk or a leap into the dark to be taken, if Uncle Sam will go first his European admirers will follow.

Thus, in the case of the Brussels conference to decide to slap Japan on the wrist, the United Press reports that delegates feel their failure to give Japan a good slap is due to American neutrality policy.

Without this government's consent to go first in applying pressure on Japan, say spokesmen for other governments, there can be no pressure applied. The Brussels conference failed, they say, because the United States is committed to an isolationist attitude. They would have been glad to punish Japan if Uncle Sam had consented to do the punishing.

What this may mean, aside from the fact that governments aren't essentially different from individuals when it's a question of wanting the other fellow to go first into danger is left to the reader's imagination, which is the reason it isn't a profound discussion of the subject.

QUIT DOING STUFF

The new deal jeer—"How would you do it?"—has brought a 10-point program from Sen. Vandenberg. The senator didn't use negative style in listing the points, but this is how they would look that way:

1. Quit hating business men.
  2. Quit spending so much money.
  3. Quit punishing with taxes.
  4. Quit collecting social security "reserve."
  5. Quit baiting employers of labor.
  6. Quit agitating for wage-hour bill.
  7. Quit letting Mr. Roosevelt exercise despotic power.
  8. Quit agitating for farm collectivism.
  9. Quit risking war by meddling in international affairs.
  10. Quit anti-constitutional activities and intrigues which shatter democratic faith.
- "Business," says Sen. Vandenberg, "must not be permitted to run the government, but unless it is permitted reasonable latitude to run itself—free from an ambitious collectivism which creates more problems than it solves—prosperity will die on the vine."
- More Abundant Livers will note that the No. 1 presidential hope of the Let's Use What We Have thinks what this country needs is a good letting alone—for a change. That's how he would do it.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, November 28

Sunday's horoscope is an excellent one for the affairs of church, state and philanthropy, as well as all cultural pursuits. All should flourish. Yet, amusements, sports, all manner of social and domestic functions, and "sentimental journeys" may lure from commonplace activities.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent prospects for the expansion of their affairs and fortunes by constructive and definitely aggressive policies, backing up brilliant plans and bold methods of putting them over.

A child born on this day may be energetic, enterprising and aggressive in launching its fine propositions and ideas. It may be brilliant, versatile and not averse to taking rather risky chances.

For Monday, November 29

Monday's astrological forecast is for very expansive and optimistic ideas, with splendid prospects for putting over large programs with perhaps spectacular emphasis. However, the temptations to be inflationary sound a warning note.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a very happy and prosperous year, with pleasure as luring as a big opportunity. In business affiliations, the openings are excellent for large coups, but there is danger from inflation and overexpansion.

A child born on this day may be notable for its "excellent parts" both in business and in its personal popularity and social graces. It may have a sympathetic, congenial, convivial nature, with much allure, and may demand more than its share of the limelight.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—This is as good a day as any to wonder just how far they are going to stretch the week-end. When I labored in the news-rooms the week used to end Saturday. If lucky we got off a little early Saturday afternoon and had Sunday for our very own.

This regulation was general. Then not many years ago we adopted "weekends," which meant we knocked off Saturday at noon or maybe Friday night. Finally we quit early Friday afternoon and showed up fairly late Monday morning. In England I discovered the weekend is from Friday lunch to Monday lunch.

Yet, even so, we have topped merry old England. Adela Rogers St. Johns recently delivered a manuscript to a weekly magazine editor on Wednesday morning at 11. His secretary came out and with a scornful glance said: "I'm sorry but Mr. Soandso left for the week-end this morning."

Illusion: Dorothy Parker is widely three-sheeted as most daring of the punsters. Yet those close to her say she is fearfully shy and rarely indulges the verbal riposte for which she has become noted. Also she is so afraid of newspapermen she has become practically a recluse.

Few non-dog-owners would believe dogs are conscious of time. Yet evidence piles up. For instance, a member of our household goes regularly twice a week shopping and returns at 1 o'clock, invariably prompt. On such days, within two or three minutes of the time for her return, our dear Boston, Billy, none gone, would arouse himself, asleep or awake, and go to the front hall to sit a few feet from the door—waiting! He never missed.

Eventually most New Yorkers tire of the peacock frumpiness of the gaudy cafes. There is something irritating to the true trencherman, about people who come to a restaurant to be seen more than to express a zest for food. Like that professional society party thrower who bounces from table to table, hallooing across the room and otherwise trying to be the whole show! The practised gourmet studiously avoids such places. When he dines out you will find him at rendezvous rarely mentioned in society chit-chat.

Dark-timbered, sherry and beef havens with old prints, and perhaps a collection of steins racked around the wall. Instead of shrieking jazz, the clatter of knives and forks and the tinkle of glass. No roster of the "small hour" blades, but diners who know the cut of a steak and to whom a goblet of rare port or a tankard of nut brown ale are a help and not a refuge. These ancient, sturdy places keep their hold in the midst of eternal change.

Whenever in this vast crowded center columning seems a mighty task I often think of Will Rice, who lives at a crossroads place in the deep Ozarks, where nothing happens, and yet turns out readable columns for a group of country newspapers. Few strangers come to his crotch of the creek and there are no entertainments such as theatre, movie, etc. Trains run through twice a week and night life consists of an owl's hoot or so, or perhaps the mournful strains of a mouth organ from across a faraway ridge. Yet Rice manages to winnow full blooded observations about life and its meaning amid such desolation. Excellent stuff that papers are glad to print. Hidden treasures from lost caves.

Often magazine editors find some of their better pieces come from the abandoned and pining places of the earth—out where the blackberry bushes hold up the rail fences. Opie Read's fine novels for another generation were turned out in the swamps of Arkansas, far from railroads. Harold Bell Wright got his plots out of the Ozarks. There is something inspiring an itch to write amid bleakness. Whittier's Snowbound, for instance. And Edith Wharton's "Ethan Frome."

Biggers, director of the unemployment census; and Malcolm Kerlin, administrative assistant to the secretary of commerce.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Voice Defects
IN THE Journal of the American Medical Association, a recent article called attention to the so-called "stutter-type" of child. The writer discussed the need of a standing of better understanding of speech defects and the part they have in the future welfare of the child.

According to Dr. James S. Greene, the medical director of the National Hospital for Speech Disorders, in New York, there are several forms of speech defects.

He regards these distinctions as important, because the treatment of each depends entirely upon the underlying cause of the defect. All forms are the result of some functional or organic disturbance of the organs of speech. One type is known as "dyslalia," and then there is another type akin to the first; this is "dysphonia." The third type is called "dysphemia," this is true stuttering. These are big words, almost big enough to cause stuttering.

Stuttering Defined
The term "stuttering" is applied to labored, difficult and hesitant speech, which makes conversing difficult. Stuttering depends usually upon emotional disturbances. Most children who stutter suffer from some nervous disorder.

Many disturbances of speech can be corrected. Relief can be hoped for if the youngster is brought to the doctor at an early age. The poor youngster who stammers or stutters should not be neglected.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

Bear in mind that correction of the defect is not made possible by scolding the child. In all your contacts with him, there must be gentleness and calmness. If your own efforts are not successful, it will probably be necessary for the child to attend a speech class. All large cities have such facilities for youngsters suffering from impediments in speech.

As I have indicated, it is essential to determine the underlying cause. If it is of an organic nature, the defect, whatever it may be, must be overcome before corrective speech measures are taken. If the underlying cause is habitual nervousness, underweight, under-nutrition or some constitutional defect, medical aid must be obtained. Every effort should be made to improve the health of the child by an adequate diet, as well as sufficient hours of rest and relaxation.

Answers to Health Queries
Afflicted, Q.—Can crosseye be corrected by operation in an adult of any age?
A.—Operation is usually successful in such cases. Talk with your doctor and be guided by his judgment and advice.

E. P. S. Q.—I have a kidney infection for which I am doctoring. I am not getting very good results. What would you advise? What causes acid crystals? Is this condition dangerous?

A.—Follow your doctor's judgment and advice. Watch your diet and elimination. The diet is very important. Drink copiously of water between meals and keep the intestinal tract clear.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. — City Treasurer M. M. Morse "cracked" the safe in police headquarters vault when he solved the mystery of the missing combination. The safe had been closed since abandonment of T. E. R. A. activities here. Morse worked half an hour before arriving at the proper combination.

There's Nothing New About Division of Wealth

Whether you believe it or not . . . the keynote of the new social era is a more equitable distribution of wealth.

This institution, since its inception, has been dividing its earnings equally among those who have made such earnings possible.

In other words, we have no preferred class of stockholders. Everyone shares alike . . . all get the same return.

This holds true for the small saver as well as those who measure their fortunes with us in thousands.

This policy has had much to do with our success . . . our safety . . . our fine return to savers.

Mr. And Mrs. Curtis Walker Observe 50th Anniversary

The golden wedding anniversary Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Walker, R. D. 4, Salem, will be celebrated with open house throughout the day and at a family dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married Nov. 30, 1889, in Salem by Rev. Hingley of the Methodist church. She was formerly Cora Bell Lloyd. They have lived most of their lives in Goshen Center and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, 71 and 70, respectively, have one daughter, Mrs. William Needham, and one grandson of Washingtonville.

Guests from Cuyahoga Falls, Warren, Berlin Center and Youngstown will attend the family dinner Sunday at the Walker home.

Miss Oesch, Henry Ewin Wed at Church

Miss Ruby Oesch, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Oesch, Franklin st., and Henry Ewin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ewin of St. Petersburg, Fla., were united in marriage at 10 a. m. Thursday at Holy Trinity English Lutheran church. The pastor, Rev. George D. Keister, officiated, using the double ring service.

The bride wore a charming dark blue dress with harmonizing accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. The nuptials were witnessed by the bride's immediate family.

A wedding dinner was served by Miss Rebecca Phillips at her home on Woodland ave. The attractive table appointments were in green. Places were arranged for the bride and groom, and members of the bride's family; other guests included Mrs. Elizabeth Potts, Damascus rd., and Misses Sara E. Walker and Pearl A. Walker of Salem.

Mrs. Ewin is a graduate of St. Petersburg High school and Mount Park hospital, school of nursing. Mr. Ewin attended St. Petersburg High school and Chicago university. He operates the Ewin Radio company in St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewin left early Thursday evening for Chicago enroute to St. Petersburg where they will make their home.

CHAPTER XIII

Preston's mood had already changed, the rare impulse toward frankness and self-revelation swept into oblivion. Knowing himself to be variable as the wind, mutable as water, he had for the moment desired this girl to see him as he was. But even if that were possible she would not understand. What a fool he was to make the attempt, merely through some obscure desire to play fair with her. It simply couldn't be done.

Well, enough of such Quixotic nonsense. She had turned her head again and was looking out to sea, eyes half closed so that the long lashes threw curving shadows on her cheeks. The beach coat had slipped back from her shoulders and he studied the pure, delicate line of throat and breast, the shape of her proud young head, the modeling of hands and feet and long, slim legs, as a sculptor might contemplate the marble figure he meant by some magic to imbue with life.

"Pygmalion and Galatea," he murmured, but she did not hear. A voice broke the stillness. "There they are. I thought we'd find them down here."

Pearl Carter appeared around the edge of the beach umbrella, followed by her husband. She smiled but it was a smile of the lips only, though her words were sweetly solicitous.

"Lucy Lee, you know I said you should be taking yourself a nice long nap this afternoon, honey. Remember, this is the big night and you must look your prettiest. Isn't that so, Mr. Preston?" She smiled down at the director, who was rather slowly and reluctantly rising to greet the newcomers. "We want her to win the Grand Prize, don't we?"

"Naturally, Mrs. Carter," Preston agreed. "So you run right along back to the hotel now, Lucy Lee. Daddy Carter will go with you. Better hurry, honey. Judy is upstairs alone and goodness only knows what mischief he may get into. I'll be up in just a few minutes and I'm sure Mr. Preston will see I get back safely."

Thus with one masterly stroke Pearl sent the two away and kept Neville Preston by her side. As she dropped to the beach cushions abandoned by Lucy Lee her glance swept appreciatively over the director's tall, bronzed figure. She indicated a cushion by her side.

"Do sit down again, Mr. Preston," she said softly. "There are such a lot of things I want to talk to you about. When I think of that Beautquest Pageant tonight, I'm all nerves!"

"Why?" he asked with a touch of malice. "You're not going to be in it, are you?"

"No, of course not. It's Lucy Lee I'm worried about. I heard some people talking in the lobby, delegates to the Convention, and according to them, that 'Miss Parisian Toilettes' has a very good chance of winning. You've seen her around the lobby, haven't you, and in the Parisian Toilettes booth?"

"Yes, I believe I have noticed her," Preston replied. "There's no denying that she's awfully pretty, though being a blonde myself maybe I ought not to say so."

Pearl's hand with its scarlet lacquered fingernails touched her regular blonde waves gently. Her tone was languishing, down to its lowest, most dulcet notes. Preston watched and listened, a mocking expression in his half-closed eyes; but he remained silent.

"I have been told," Pearl went on, "that I'm very much the Carole Lombard type." Still he made no reply. "Do you think so, Mr. Preston?"

"Ten pounds too heavy," he remarked judiciously, "and all of them in the wrong places. You'll have to get rid of the excess baggage before you can compete with Carole. I'm afraid. Also, your hair is all wrong. He saw her lips tighten ominously.

"Ned, don't get angry. You asked for it, and I'm only telling you for your own good. You should wear a simpler, less conventional coiffure—perhaps drawn back off your forehead."

"You've made up your mind to crash pictures, haven't you?" Preston asked.

head with very little wave, if any. Shall I go on?"

"Why... yes," she hesitated. "I—I guess so."

"You've made up your mind to crash pictures, haven't you?" he went on. "You don't need to answer, because I know all the symptoms. And to ninety-nine out of a hundred women I'd say it was absolutely hopeless. But you've got what they lack."

It was amusing to see the thin line of her mouth soften and relax. "Oh, I don't mean beauty," he went on. "Hollywood is overrun with blondes who firmly believe they are the Harlow type or the Harding type or the Anita Louise type. And where do they get? Exactly nowhere! But I imagine you may be the exception, because you are luckily not burdened with silly scruples or what some people so amusingly call 'conscience'."

"Why, Mr. Preston!" Pearl protested, but not too forcibly. "You know what you want and unless I'm mistaken, you won't hesitate at anything to accomplish it. Admirable traits, I assure you—in Hollywood! After watching you for the past few days I'm glad to have this little talk."

He opened a jeweled cigarette case and offered her one, then helped himself. Their glances met as he held the lighter for her. "It's been interesting to observe your maneuvers in my direction, but I could have wished they had been a bit more subtle. You really must learn to be less obvious."

He blew perfumed smoke lazily skyward. "Yet there is a certain refreshing quality about you. Right now, you are trying to decide whether to pretend anger, hurt pride or merely lack of understanding. Why not be yourself for a change? You know perfectly well that what I'm saying is true. Now isn't it?"

Pearl's body relaxed. She leaned back against the piled cushions and a slow smile came over her face. Their glances met again and held for a long moment before she spoke. "Of course it is, but I think it's awfully clever of you to see through me, Mr. Preston."

"Why not call me Neville? I imagine that we're going to be pals, you and I." He laid a hand over one of hers and she made no move to withdraw it. "That's why I'm giving you sound advice. Ordinarily I wouldn't bother."

"Thanks," she said very softly. "Don't try to be a pretty doll, Pearl. You're decidedly not the type. You've got something infinitely more valuable than mere prettiness. There's a certain seductive quality—a vitality—which radiates from you. If that can be made to register on the screen as it does here on the Atlantic City sands you may make good, in a big way. Mind you, I'm not saying you will. But

The Housing Authority Gets Down to Business

Youth Wins Race With Death

Stricken with infantile paralysis while at work at Stevens Point, Wis., James Helmer, 23, undergraduate football manager at Marquette university, was rushed by special train to Chicago where he arrived just in time to have his life saved by the "iron lung" which artificially stimulated his respiration. The above graphic pictures show Helmer, top, just before he was put in the "iron lung", his face contorted with pain, and, below, his revived expression as he gained a new lease on life.

A Reminder of Prohibition's Bad Old Days

Policemen are shown hurling liquor jugs and bottles against the wall of the Police Property Clerk's warehouse in Brooklyn, N. Y., when authorities destroyed some 10,000 gallons of whisky, wine and beer seized in raids since 1933. The beverages were made illegally and in violation of Federal and State license laws.

Triplets Scramble for Thanksgiving Leftovers

Raquel, Rosalva and Rebecca Randolph

Because there was only one drumstick left after their Thanksgiving feast, the Randolph triplets of Los Angeles, left to right, Raquel, Rosalva and Rebecca, had quite a time dividing the prize when they cleaned up the remains the day after. Their problem would have been easier, no doubt, had the drumstick been made into the traditional hash and then divided.

In the Wake of the Philippine Typhoon

Mayors Hear Hopkins Discuss Relief

A "Lucky" Shanghai Defender

Fortunate indeed are those of Shanghai's defenders who reached the merciful ministrations of a hospital, so inadequately equipped are the Chinese with proper ambulance and first aid material. A wounded Chinese soldier is being borne, pick-a-back, by an ambulance driver, while a Boy Scout enters to remove another of the wounded. The comely nurse is Virginia Chang, whose father was former Chinese Minister to Chile.

Discussing Housing Difficulties

Married-Single-14

Marion Horton Ruud

Declaring her marriage an outrage, a Chicago judge granted an annulment to Marion Horton Ruud, 14, from her 24-year-old husband, Harry Ruud, an orchestra player, and instructed the prosecutor to proceed against the husband.

Leopold in England

New Social Season Brings Forth Smart Styles

Barbara Stanwyck

June Lang

Simone Simon

The most truly glamorous of all American seasons is the late fall, and it is during this time that the social whirl results in display of many new and brilliant designs. Simone Simon is wearing a new winter print, considerable of an innovation as far as styles go. White butterflies stand out against a wine-colored background and the high schoolboy collar and long sleeves add an unusual touch. Luxuriant formality is mirrored in every line of the silk and wool beige dress which Barbara Stanwyck is modeling. It has a shirred bodice caught into a high-waisted belt and the skirt fits snugly over the hips, flaring down from there. The draped cape has a high standing collar of cross fox. For more formal evenings the creation chosen by June Lang is most striking. It is a youthful waltz frock of iridescent moiré-taffeta cut with wide, pointed front lapels. The skirt is ankle-length.

Mr. And Mrs. Curtis Walker Observe 50th Anniversary

The golden wedding anniversary Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Walker, R. D. 4, Salem, will be celebrated with open house throughout the day and at a family dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married Nov. 30, 1889, in Salem by Rev. Hingley of the Methodist church. She was formerly Cora Bell Lloyd. They have lived most of their lives in Goshen Center and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, 71 and 70, respectively, have one daughter, Mrs. William Needham, and one grandson of Washingtonville.

Guests from Cuyahoga Falls, Warren, Berlin Center and Youngstown will attend the family dinner Sunday at the Walker home.

Miss Oesch, Henry Ewin Wed at Church

Miss Ruby Oesch, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Oesch, Franklin st., and Henry Ewin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ewin of St. Petersburg, Fla., were united in marriage at 10 a. m. Thursday at Holy Trinity English Lutheran church. The pastor, Rev. George D. Kelster, officiated using the double ring service.

The bride wore a charming dark blue dress with harmonizing accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. The nuptials were witnessed by the bride's immediate family.

A wedding dinner was served by Miss Rebecca Phillips at her home on Woodland ave. The attractive table appointments were in green. Places were arranged for the bride and groom, and members of the bride's family; other guests included Mrs. Elizabeth Potts, Damascus rd., and Misses Sara E. Walker and Pearl A. Walker of Salem.

Mrs. Ewin is a graduate of St. Petersburg High school and Mound Park hospital, school of nursing. Mr. Ewin attended St. Petersburg High school and Chicago university. He operates the Ewin Radio company in St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewin left early Thursday evening for Chicago en route to St. Petersburg where they will make their home.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses have been granted at Lisbon to Lionel R. Smith of 240 East Fourth st. and Joyce Benton Chatfield of Brooklyn ave.; Wade C. Schaefer and Sara B. Starbuck of Salem.

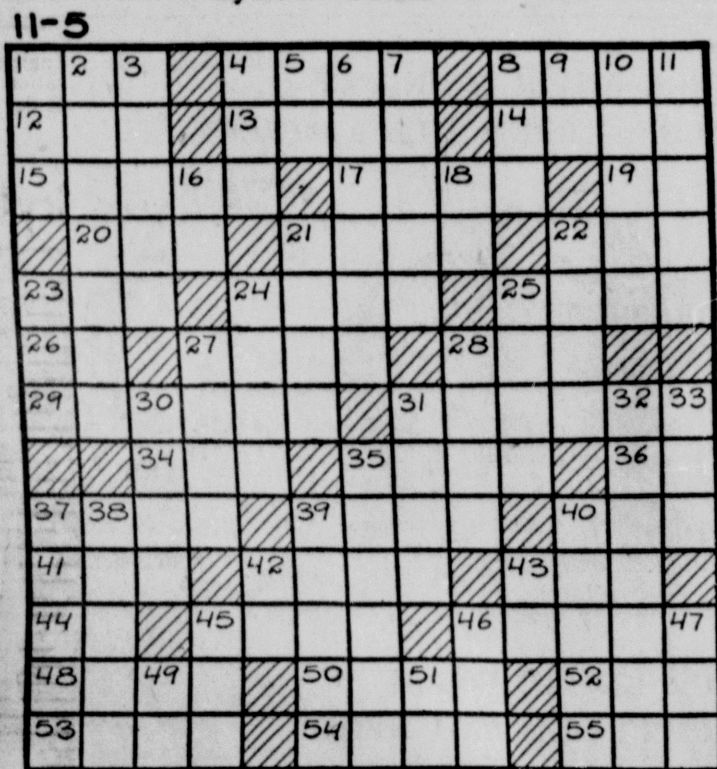

Harry Francis Lederle of Washingtonville and Grace Klein of Lisbon; Ralph F. Hutchison and Florence G. McKenna of East Liverpool; Danton E. Hutton of Lisbon and Mildred F. Riesen of Columbiana; Fred Potts of Detroit and Edna Mae Bloom of East Liverpool; Donald J. Buddenhagen of Parma and Hildegard Schiff of East Liverpool.

"Thanks," she said very softly. "Don't try to be a pretty doll. Pearl. You're decidedly not the necessary break."

"I see. If I get the break," Pearl's hand, upon which his was still lying, turned slowly until it lay palm upward against his palm, close, throbbing proximity. "You more their glances locked and held for a long moment of intimate revelation, before Pearl smilingly rose to her feet and together they walked slowly back to the hotel."

"You've made up your mind to crash pictures, haven't you?" Preston asked.

head with very little wave, if any. Shall I go on?"

"Why - yes," she hesitated. "I—I guess so."

"You've made up your mind to crash pictures, haven't you?" he went on. "You don't need to answer, because I know all the symptoms. And to ninety-nine out of a hundred women I'd say it was absolutely hopeless. But you've got what they lack."

It was amusing to see the thin line of her mouth soften and relax. "Oh, I don't mean beauty," he went on. "Hollywood is overrun with blondes who firmly believe they are the Harlow type or the Harding type or the Anita Louise type. And where do they get? Exactly nowhere! But I imagine you may be the exception, because you are luckily not burdened with silly scruples or what some people so amusingly call conscience."

"Why, Mr. Preston!" Pearl protested, but not too forcibly.

"You know what you want and unless I'm mistaken, you won't hesitate at anything to accomplish it. Admirable traits, I assure you—in Hollywood! After watching you for the past few days I'm glad to have this little talk."

He opened a jewelled cigarette case and offered her one, then helped himself. Their glances met as he held the lighter for her. "It's been interesting to observe your maneuvers in my direction, but I could have wished they had been a bit more subtle. You really must learn to be less obvious."

He blew perfumed smoke lazily skyward. "Yet there is a certain refreshing quality about you. Right now, you are trying to decide whether to pretend anger, hurt pride or merely lack of understanding. Why not be yourself for a change? You know perfectly well that what I'm saying is true. Now isn't it?"

Pearl's body relaxed. She leaned back against the piled cushions and a slow smile came over her face. Their glances met again and held for a long moment before she spoke. "Of course it is, but I think it's awfully clever of you to see through me, Mr. Preston."

"Why not call me Neville? I imagine that we're going to be pals, you and I." He laid a hand over one of hers and she made no move to withdraw it. "That's why I'm giving you sound advice. Ordinarily I wouldn't bother."

"Thanks," she said very softly. "Don't try to be a pretty doll. Pearl. You're decidedly not the necessary break."

"I see. If I get the break," Pearl's hand, upon which his was still lying, turned slowly until it lay palm upward against his palm, close, throbbing proximity. "You more their glances locked and held for a long moment of intimate revelation, before Pearl smilingly rose to her feet and together they walked slowly back to the hotel."

The Housing Authority Gets Down to Business

Youth Wins Race With Death

Stricken with infantile paralysis while at work at Stevens Point, Wis., James Helmer, 23, undergraduate football manager at Marquette university, was rushed by special train to Chicago where he arrived just in time to have his life saved by the "iron lung" which artificially stimulated his respiration. The above graphic pictures show Helmer, top, just before he was put in the "iron lung", his face contorted with pain, and, below, his revived expression as he gained a new lease on life.

A Reminder of Prohibition's Bad Old Days

Policemen are shown hurling liquor jugs and bottles against the wall of the Police Property Clerk's warehouse in Brooklyn, N. Y., when authorities destroyed some 10,000 gallons of whisky, wine and beer seized in raids since 1933. The beverages were made illegally and in violation of Federal and State license laws.

Triplets Scramble for Thanksgiving Leftovers

Raquel, Rosalva and Rebecca Randolph

Because there was only one drumstick left after their Thanksgiving feast, the Randolph triplets of Los Angeles, left to right, Raquel, Rosalva and Rebecca, had quite a time dividing the prize when they cleaned up the remains the day after. Their problem would have been easier, no doubt, had the drumstick been made into the traditional hash and then divided.

In the Wake of the Philippine Typhoon

Mayors Hear Hopkins Discuss Relief

A "Lucky" Shanghai Defender

Fortunate indeed are those of Shanghai's defenders who reached the merciful ministrations of a hospital, so inadequately equipped are the Chinese with proper ambulance and first aid material. A wounded Chinese soldier is being borne, pick-a-back, by an ambulance driver, while a Boy Scout enters to remove another of the wounded. The comely nurse is Virginia Chang, whose father was former Chinese Minister to Chile.

Discussing Housing Difficulties

Married—Single—14

Declaring her marriage an outrage, a Chicago judge granted an annulment to Marion Horton Ruud, 14, from her 24-year-old husband, Harry Ruud, an orchestra player, and instructed the prosecutor to proceed against the husband.

Leopold in England

New Social Season Brings Forth Smart Styles

The most truly glamorous of all American seasons is the late fall, and it is during this time that the social whirl results in display of many new and brilliant designs. Simone Simon is wearing a new winter print, considerable of an innovation as far as styles go. White butterflies stand out against a wine-colored background and the high schoolboy collar and long sleeves add an unusual touch. Luxuriant formality is mirrored in every line of the silk and wool beige dress which Barbara Stanwyck is modeling. It has a shirred bodice caught into a high-waisted belt and the skirt fits snugly over the hips, flaring down from there. The draped cape has a high standing collar of cross fox. For more formal evenings the creation chosen by June Lang is most striking. It is a youthful waltz frock of iridescent moiré-taffeta cut with wide, pointed front lapels. The skirt is ankle-length.

PITT, FORDHAM LEAD LAST FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Panthers Face Stiff Test Against Duke, While Rams Must Triumph Over N.Y.U.

Empty Benches In Old Rose Bowl Corral If Pitt and Fordham Lose Today; Army-Navy Clash To Produce Most Glamorous Contest

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—They're headin' for the last roundup today and two bell-cows of the football herd, Pittsburgh and Fordham, lead the way.

Despite the glamorous background of the Army-Navy clash at Philadelphia, Pitt's engagement with Duke at Durham and Fordham's traditional clash with New York university at New York are more important nationally. Reason? Empty benches in the Rose bowl corral.

But don't mention this in Philadelphia. There the streets echo to "Anchors Aweigh" and "Benny Boy" as the staid city entertains a crowd of 103,000 and football's most impressive show.

Dr. John Bain Sutherland and Pitt and Jimmy Crowley of Fordham have man-sized problems this afternoon. The Pittsburghers, halted only by a tie with Fordham, meet a resourceful foe in Duke. The Blue Devils are in a fine spot for gambling, with everything to win and nothing to lose. And with Red Tipton and Honey Hackney on hand they can make Monte Carlo look like a church bazaar.

Like Sutherland, Crowley has heard the distant thumping of Rose Bowl drums. But his team has unfinished business ahead that gives the Rams a greater incentive against N. Y. U. than Pitt has in meeting Duke. A year ago the smell of roses around Fordham was wafted away by a 7-6 Violet victory.

On form both Pitt and Fordham should win, thus placing the Rose Bowl selectors in a most uncomfortable position. One of three Alabama, Pitt or Fordham, probably will be picked for Pasadena. If Alabama misses a Rose Bowl bid it's a good bet that the Tide will meet one of the other two teams in the Sugar Bowl, thereby giving the New Orleans game the tastiest attraction of its history.

Alabama, unbeaten and untied, is resting on its laurels after shading Vanderbilt. Notre Dame, pushed out of top billing today, meets an old intersectional foe, Southern California. A win over the Trojans will give Elmer Layden's young men one of Notre Dame's most notable seasons of recent years.

Columbia entertains Stanford in New York. Tulane and Louisiana State and Georgia Tech resume old rivalries in the south. Nebraska makes its last bid for the Big Six title against Kansas State. Tensatec plays Oklahoma A. and M.

Texas Christian opposes Southern Methodist and Rice faces Baylor in the southwest. Drake scored a last period touchdown to beat Miami, 7-0, at Miami last night.

Two unbeaten teams, Santa Clara and Villanova, play tomorrow. Santa Clara meeting Gonzaga and Villanova encountering Loyola of Los Angeles.

DUKE TO SHOOT WORKS AT PITT

Blue Devils Have Everything To Win, Nothing To Lose Today

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 27.—Pittsburgh's famous perimeter tied only Fordham this season, invaded the southland today and tangled with Duke's Blue Devils of football before a crowd expected to reach 45,000, largest ever to see a grid battle in Dixie.

Duke, with everything to win and nothing to lose, had a chance to wind up this surprising season with one of the year's biggest upsets, thereby throwing a damaging monkey-wrench into the post-season bowl picture.

Probable lineups:

Pittsburgh	Pos	Duke
Daddio	LE	Hudgins
Matuski	LT	Brunansky
Lezinski	LG	Badgett
Hendley	C	Hill
Petro	RG	Lipscomb
Schmidt	RT	Edwards

Salem Saxon Cagers Open Season Today

The Salem Saxon basketball team, champion of the T. S. J. A. league, will open its 1937-38 season at Cleveland tonight, meeting the Cleveland East Saxons.

The Salem club's starting quintet will include Bill Pauline at center, Mike Linder and George Schneider at forwards and Walter Linder and Mai Wagner at guards.

Fight Results

NEW YORK — Nathan Mann, 185½, New Haven, Conn., outpointed Bob Pastor, 183, New York (10) at BALTIMORE — Harry Jeffra, 122½, world's bantamweight champion, Baltimore, outpointed Indian Quintana, 119½, Panama (10) now Quintana, 119½, Panama (10) new title.

FOREIGN HORSES POINT FOR RICH ANITA HANDICAP

South American Nations Added To List For Coming Race

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. — With foreign thoroughbreds from practically every quarter of the globe being pointed for the Santa Anita Handicap in March, the $100,000 added money classic may take on the appearance of a foreign invasion.

This situation is not new for practically since the inception of the rich event foreign horses have been imported and trained with the object of winning it. Thus far, no invader has succeeded in carrying it off.

Australia and France were most prominently represented in the past, but this year, South American countries may also place entries on the list. And France, again, hopes to participate.

Grand Manitou, a French horse which became the property of Raoul Walsh, failed to match the speed of American colorbearers in the Santa Anita Handicap although successful in minor events. Next year, the French horse which may take up the task is Le Bambino, which is distinguished by a creditable record abroad.

So far, Australian horses which asserted to the mantle of the great Phar Lap, and French equines which were after the fallen glory of Epinard, haven't made serious dents in American races. Buoyed by the great success of Phar Lap which won the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, fore-runner of the Santa Anita Handicap, several years ago, Australian owners sent up from "down under" two other outstanding Anzac horses—Winooka and Pillow Fight—but the long and expensive trip proved unavailing.

Winooka met with only mild success in the American turf while Pillow Fight proved a virtual dud. The French Grand Manitou showed better stuff than either Winooka and Pillow Fight as he went on to hang up some notable scores in this country. Now Le Bambino may take up his task and aim to better it.

Le Bambino has seen service not only in his native France but also in England where he was a starter in the Epsom Derby and, although unplaced, turned in a good account of himself. On the strength of that, he may be a powerful menace to American stars.

The steady influx of South American thoroughbreds this year has been notable and marked with a degree of success. Chief of these have been Caballero II and Sahari II, both of which figured in a winning coup in their initial American appearances. Caballero II, which turns in his best performances over a long distance of ground is now the property of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, who acquired the horse via the claiming route immediately following his first victory. Gradually moving up into higher brackets, Caballero II proved a sturdy campaigner and even made the champion Seabiscuit step lively on occasion.

Expect Big Crowd To See Star Play

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—A 19-year-old high school boy and two prep football teams battling for charity and a city championship lured an expected crowd of 80,000 persons to the Lakeside Soldier Field stadium today.

Bill DeCorrevont was the boy, Austin and Leo were the grid teams and Mayor Edward J. Kelly's Christmas fund was the charitable cause. DeCorrevont, 170-pound halfback for Austin, city public school league champion, tops all scorers in the nation—prep, collegiate or pro—with 39 touchdowns and six extra points, for a total of 183, in eight games.

Wrestling Results

CINCINNATI — Billy Weidner, Los Angeles, threw the Greco-Phospho, Connecticut, 43 minutes (light heavyweights).

HARTFORD, Conn.—Steve Casey, 220, Ireland, defeated Bob McCoy, 252, Massachusetts, two straight falls.

DETROIT — Jim London, 200, Greece, defeated Al Baba, 198, Detroit, 35 minutes.

ST. LOUIS — Everett Marshall, 223, Colorado, pinned Danno O'Mahoney, 225, Ireland, 29:50.

ZIEMKE NAMED ON OHIO LOOP HONOR ELEVEN

Three Baldwin-Wallace Players Chosen On Conference Team

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27.—Just as they have dominated the league for the past three years, the Yellow Jackets of Baldwin-Wallace "took charge" today of the 1937 All-Ohio conference football team, three of Coach Ray Watts' Gladiators winning first-string berths on the honorary squad selected for the Associated Press by the loop's coaches, officials and sports writers.

Capital university, for the first time in years, won first team representation, lacing two players, as did Case, while single positions went to Ohio Northern, Heidelberg, Mount Union and Muskingum.

Baldwin-Wallace, Muskingum and Wooster grabbed two second place berths, while Ohio Northern, Wittenberg, John Carroll, Denison and Marietta also were represented.

Unbeaten in three years of conference play, the Yellow Jackets placed two seniors who played all three of those seasons, and one sophomore, William Krause, the 243-pound Yellow Jacket tackle, won a first-team job for the third straight season, while Bill Davidson, end, was named for the second straight year.

Howard Ziemke of Mount Union, was moved up from the 1936 second team to be Davidson's running mate at end, while Harry Campbell of Capital leaped from last year's third team to the front row as the other tackle.

The guard berths went to Harold Anderson of Case, named as a tackle on the first team a year ago, and Burton Honey of Heidelberg, a newcomer, Louis Niemiec of Ohio Northern was designated as the center, no other snapper-back being close.

The backfield, with Sophomore Wade Watts of Baldwin-Wallace calling the signals, has everything, Watts, son of the Yellow Jacket coach, rose to the heights in his first attempt, just slipping around Kovachy of Denison for the first team post.

At the halfbacks are Kenny Heister of Capital, 190-pound kicker, passer and runner, and Ralph (Beanie) Patton of Muskingum, the league's leading scorer. Heister finished second in the scoring race.

Ray Mikovsky, swashbuckling fullback of Case, triple-threat star de luxe and rated one of the greatest all-around gridlers the state ever has seen, won the fullback job in a walk, and with it the team captaincy. On practically all of the 60 ballots cast, Mikovsky was the first-string choice for fullback, it was his third straight year at that job on the all-conference team.

Toledo, which did not play a conference game, was not considered. Ballots were cast by Ohio conference coaches, and 20 officials and 20 sports writers who handled league games.

"Whizzer" White To Play Post Season

BOLDER, Colo. Nov. 27.—Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado university's national football scoring leader, will exhibit his tricks outside the Rocky mountain section after all.

Colorado's athletic board today approved a post-season game for the Buffaloes, undefeated and untied in eight games. Prof. Clarence Eckel, chairman, said the Buffs have been invited to New York's Yankee stadium to meet Villanova Dec. 11, to the El Paso, Tex., Sun Bowl, New Year's day, with Texas Tech as the probable foe, and to Los Angeles for a charity game Christmas.

Plans 3 Fights

CHICAGO, Nov. 27. — Joe Louis said he expected to have three fights prior to his heavyweight boxing championship defense against Max Baer, scheduled for Dec. 11, the Negro title-holder plans to resume training here Monday for bouts in Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles. The first is scheduled for February. Louis returned from Detroit after a Thanksgiving holiday with his mother.

Middies and Cadets Ready for Annual Fray

The nation's most colorful football clash between Army and Navy holds the center of attention on a small grid program today. Leading the Middies in the annual game at Philadelphia will be Ingram, veteran grad, DuBois, running guard, and Powell, powerful end. The Army is depending on Woodrow Wilson and "Huey" Long for flashy backfield work behind Mather at tackle.

ARMY AND NAVY TO MEET TODAY

Largest Crowd of Grid Season To Watch Rivals Play

By DILLON GRAHAM

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—The nation's largest sports crowd of the year—102,000—tumbled into Philadelphia's huge cement bowl today to see twice-beaten Army and three-beaten Navy tangle in their annual service battle that has become perhaps the most colorful of gridiron spectacles.

They had poured in on special trains, and by motor and air, from all over the east and taken complete possession of this staid old city. Their gay cries echoed down South Broad street, all dressed up in bunting and banners. Trimly uniformed officers and sportingly attired collegians chaperoned pretty girls wearing chrysanthemum badges.

The Army cadets and the regiment of midshipmen, whose parade is a major attraction, were to arrive by special trains shortly before game time. The Navy team, which held its last practice at Annapolis yesterday, was to reach town around noon. Army's gridlers have been here since Thursday night and drilled in the bowl Friday.

The Sailors were installed as slight pre-game favorites because of anticipated rain during the afternoon. A dry field would have been the battle a toss-up.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts, Secretary of War Harry Woodring and Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson headed the list of boxholders from official Washington.

Rose Bowl Guessing Game Keeps Grid Fans Puzzled

Announcement of Eastern Opponent For California May Be Made After Games Today

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 27. — The annual Rose Bowl guessing contest was about as good as another.

The problem: whom will California invite to Pasadena's big bowl New Year's day?

The only man who could solve it, Ken Priestley, wouldn't. He is Golden Bear graduate manager, upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility of picking a foe for his Pacific Coast conference champions.

Rumors that Alabama, Pittsburgh and Fordham were under deepest consideration, were met by stony silence at California headquarters here.

It is a long established custom never to hint who will get the coveted bowl bid until the deal is definitely set.

Priestley intimated the announcement might come late today after the Pitt-Duke and Fordham-New York U. games. But this was not taken to mean Alabama was out.

Nor did it mean a "darkhorse," such as once-tied Dartmouth, was not under consideration.

IRISH FAVORED TO SPANK U.S.C.

Schindler Not Expected To Play for Southern California

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 27.—Notre Dame was favored to close victoriously its 50th season of football today at the expense of Southern California's injury-weakened Trojans, but there was enough prospect of a real battle to attract an estimated throng of 50,000 fans.

"Ambling Amby" Schindler, spearhead of the Trojan offense, was not expected to play, and two other regulars, Tackle Phil Gaspar and Haliback Mickey Anderson, were definitely out because of injuries.

The Fighting Irish, on the other hand, were at top physical strength and confident.

Baseball Chatter Starts As Football Season Bids Farewell In Games Today

Minor League Magnates Hold Meeting Next Wednesday at Milwaukee; Major League Moguls To Gather At Chicago For 5-Day Session

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Listen closely as king football blusters his way out today and you'll hear the thumping and throbbing of the baseball drums.

They can't remain silent long. It seems only day before yesterday that Bill Terry sat in his big ball-bearing chair in the polo grounds clubhouse, listened to the carousal of the victorious Yankees next door, and said: "Boys, they simply licked hell out of us."

Yet next Wednesday the minor leagues open their big three-day horse trading session at Milwaukee, and five days later the major league magnates start exercising their tonsils at Chicago. There will be a world of noise—particularly at Chicago—and there will be one "sensational" trade right after the other, none of them destined to affect next year's pennant races in the slightest degree.

Every manager from Joe McCarthy of the terrible Yankees to Bill McKechnie, new boss of the lowly Cincinnati, will go to Chicago determined to out-slick a couple of rival pilots and strengthen his club out of all recognition without spending a cent. And none will return home with anything notable except a temporary squab from cigar smoke.

It's a dirty trick, but take last year's meeting here. They swapped players all over the place, no fewer than 20 sterling performers changing uniforms, four of them going to Brooklyn alone. Yet in the light of subsequent events it is clear that the most important and far-reaching event of that meeting was a $10,000 banquet thrown by Owner Horace Stoneham of the Giants.

Neither the Yankees nor Detroit Tigers, destined to finish one-two in the American league, made a single deal.

Among the most whooped-up trades of the session was that sending Third-Baseman Frank Higgins of the Athletics to the Boston Red Sox in exchange for Bill Werber. The final 1937 standings fall to show where either club profited. The Chicago White Sox, perhaps, made the most profitable deal when they got Pitcher Thornton Lee from Cleveland. He trimmed the Yanks five straight before they finally caught up with him.

The biggest trade of all—a six-player swap—didn't noticeably do the Cleveland Indians or St. Louis Browns any good.

Terry parted with a minor league player and $25,000 cash to get Third-Baseman Lou Chiozza from the Phils. Lou flopped at the hot corner, though he did do some valuable and totally unexpected batting for the Giants toward the end of the campaign.

Pittsburgh found that the veteran Ed Brandt, obtained from Brooklyn, was no bargain, and the Cards found no value in the three players they picked up.

PASTOR LOSES TO NATE MANN

New York Heavy Beaten In 10-Round Bout At Garden

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Bob Pastor, who ran dashing into the heavyweight boxing picture in a ten-round romp with Joe Louis, is on the outside looking in again.

The New York heavyweight, carefully nurtured by the Johnsons, James Joy and James Joy, Jr., dropped his ranking as one of the top flight heavies to stolid Nathan Mann of New Haven, in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. It was the biggest upset of the fall boxing season, for Pastor was a 2 to 1 favorite.

Mann, a rugged warrior with a fair punch but no visible signs of fistic greatness, catapulted himself into the heavyweight elite by the victory. He may get a shot at Tommy Farr, the durable Welshman, as a reward for his efforts.

Pastor was never in the fight after Mann dropped him in the first with a short right. The speed that kept him away from Louis was missing and he took only one round to Mann's six with three even.

He even left the game and entered private business for a year or two, so black did his future seem. But that's all behind him now, after what he did with a "nothing" ball club last season. Nobody hit anything. Everybody was a discard from somebody else. Yet at the end he had the Bees up there outside door.

The end, yes. The end for McKechnie in Boston. But one can't help feeling that it's only the beginning for him in Cincinnati.

KARACHI, India.—A process for producing fuel from mud has been patented by H. Greenfield, Karachi industrialist. He proposes to found a vast new industry on the mud quantities all along the coast from Karachi to Bombay. This particular kind of mud is full of semi-decomposed fibers of seaweed.

BORGWARDT ON TRIAL MONDAY

27 or More Witnesses Will Be Called By Prosecution

screen, Borgwardt, according to his confession, shot the woman in the head at a distance of about four feet.

The shot gun, taken from a neighbor's home, was later recovered from Westville lake where Borgwardt had thrown it after the crime. It will be used as a state exhibit. Other items expected to figure in the case include a bullet-scored chair, plaster paris casts of foot-prints found outside the window, the riddled window screen through which Borgwardt fired and his signed confession.

Seat Jury Monday

Seating of the jury is expected to consume a large part of the opening day. A special venire of 75 names was drawn several weeks ago from the jury wheel and from these, 12 jurors and an alternate will be selected. The latter will vote only in case one of the 12 is incapacitated during the trial.

Jurors probably will visit the scene of the crime following their selection. Arrangements are said to have been made with the Cranston family to restore the room in which Mrs. Cranston met her death, to its appearance on the night of the murder.

The trial is expected to continue through most of the week. Counsel for the defense has not indicated the number of witnesses it will summon.

Driver Stages Lie-Down Strike

Krause beneath bus wheel

Adapting methods of the sitdown strike to suit the occasion, Ray Krause of Garrettsville, O., laid down under a bus at the Cleveland terminal of the Greyhound Lines to prevent it from leaving the station during a strike called at a number of key points in the Greyhound system after the company refused demands of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to grant a closed shop and the wage schedule sought by workers.

Wouldn't Take 'No'

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Alex Solt, 50, refused to take "no" for an answer when nurses refused to let him kiss his new baby son. They explained it was against hospital rules.

Solt started a rumpus, wrote angry notes to the hospital superintendent and his wife's physician. Arrested for disorderly conduct, Solt pleaded his actions were merely an outburst of fatherly affection. But he was held for examination by welfare physicians.

BUDGET BALANCE STILL IN DOUBT

Economic Developments in Next Few Weeks Are Awaited

ability that workers' buying power may be reduced while industrial production is checked during the waiting period," the statement added.

Urge Building

It suggested that there be no postponement of plans for plant expansion, building of all types, and purchase of new equipment.

In variation of this idea, Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday he would ask federal department heads to anticipate their supply needs for the next six months and make the purchases now. It was estimated this would pour $245,000,000 into trade channels.

There was no present indication that Morgenthau has abandoned his intention to help balance the budget by holding next year's relief spending below the $1,500,000,000 appropriated this year.

He also has urged less spending for agriculture, public works and highways. Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday he would ask congress to pass legislation reducing the annual outlay for federal aid highways, which has more than doubled since 1929 and which now approximates $202,000,000.

Most observers were dubious about effecting any savings on agriculture, because the pending farm bill will continue and possibly increase benefit payments.

LEWIS ASSAILS F. D. R. POLICY

Says President Tries Too Much To Balance Personalities

tion with a small 'a.' In other words, his ability to administer, to carry out the ideals which he has set for himself and for the country.

"The other day I was in New York conferring with the anthracite coal operators and I got a call from Marvin McIntyre saying the President wanted to see me. But he didn't say when. He said there was no hurry—any time in two or three days. Well, usually the White House is specific and in a hurry regarding appointments, and I couldn't understand all the vagueness.

Green There First

"Then I got it. Bill Green had visited the White House, and McIntyre had given me this nebulous invitation for fear I would be displeased.

"Now that illustrates what I think is one of these serious defects of this administration. There is too much time given to balancing political personalities."

TREASURY RECEIPTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The position of the treasury Nov. 24: Receipts, $66,334,421.78; expenditures, $68,569,849.15; balance, $2,621,851,338.49; fiscal year (since July 1), excess of expenditures, $759,004,732.26; gross debt, $37,087,769,936.29, an increase of $431,848.61 over the previous day.

Here and There About Town

Recent Births

A son was born this morning at the Central Clinic to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hively of 388 Penn. ave.

E. Liverpool Man Named WPA Agent

LISBON, Nov. 27.—H. A. Moore of East Liverpool was appointed WPA certifying agent for Columbiana county Friday by Fred Rose, WPA director for the fifth Ohio district.

Mr. Moore is expected to start his duties in an office on the third floor of the courthouse Dec. 6. For the past six months he has been associated with the county engineer's office and prior to that time was employed by the county commissioners in the administration of relief activities.

Regulations governing certification will be announced next week following a conference between Mr. Moore and WPA authorities at Akron. The appointment is expected to facilitate work on county WPA projects by increasing the number of men available for assignment.

Matches Are Fatal

TOLEDO, Nov. 27.—Playing with matches was fatal late yesterday to Joyce Johnstone, 2. She was burned to death at her home when her clothing was ignited.

Killed In Cave-In

LANCASTER, Nov. 27.—Neal Miller, 16, of Lancaster, died of a broken neck yesterday after a sand bank caved in on him. Three companions escaped unhurt.

Star-Crossed!

Helen Wright

A child of tragedy is little Helen Wright, 3, who enjoys the first snowfall at her temporary home with an uncle in Cleveland, happily unconscious that her father, Paul Wright, Glendale, Cal., air terminal official, is held in jail for the murder of his wife and best friend whom he found in a compromising position.

Theater Attractions

John King and Joy Hodges in a scene from "The Merry-Go-Round of 1938" at the Grand Sunday through Tuesday.

"Conquest," starring Greta Garbo and Charles Boyer, comes to the State Sunday through Tuesday. The large cast of supporting players includes Reginald Owen, Henry Stephenson, Dame May Whitty, Alan Marshal, Lief Erickson, C. Henry Gordon and Vladimir Sokoloff.

The story of "Conquest" is the romance of Napoleon of France and a Polish countess, Marie Walewska. They first became acquainted when the countess goes to Napoleon to ask him to free Poland, a country which has been furnishing him soldiers to wage his many and successful wars.

When Napoleon's wars begin to go unsatisfactorily and finally when he is defeated and sent to Elba, his Hapsburg wife deserts him. Marie brings their son to him and although she realizes the futility of it, he begins to plan new campaigns, sending her and the son back to France with messages which never accomplished anything.

A return engagement of an early film, "Hell Divers," starring Clark Gable, Marjorie Rambeau and Wallace Beery, is booked for Wednesday and Thursday at the State theater.

The two stars are seen in the story of naval fliers, the film marking the first screen use of "sensational bombing planes." Dorothy Jordan, Cliff Edwards and John Miljan have supporting roles.

Jane Withers, child player, will be seen in "45 Fathers" at the State theater Friday and Saturday. Thomas Beck, Louise Henri and the Hartmans, Paul and Grace, nationally known dancing team, have prominent parts.

The Grand brings the most recent topnotch musical, "The Merry-Go-Round of 1938," to the screen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with Alice Brady, Mischa Auer, Joy Hodges, Louise Fazenda, John King and Barbara Read.

"West of Shanghai" Berlin Karloff, Richardo Cortez, Gordon Oliver and Beverly Roberts have featured parts in "West of Shanghai," which will be seen at the Grand theater Wednesday and Thursday. As the title suggests, the picture concerns war-torn China, and more specifically a little group of Americans caught in the country between lines of fighting Chinese and bands of marauding native bandits.

The film is booked for a double feature with "Gangway," a British film. Jessie Matthews, English singing and dancing musical favorite, who has gained a large following

Douglas and Herbert Marshall in "Angel"; at the Grand, Charles Bickford, Marsha Hunt, Gilbert Roland in "Thunder Trail."

Dog Caused Suit

LISBON, Nov. 27.—A dog belonging to Fred Pim, R. D. East Rochester, involved its owner in a $2,500 damage suit, filed Friday by Mary Frances Kountz of East Liverpool.

The plaintiff asserts in her petition she was bitten by the animal June 10, 1937, while working in the defendant's home. As a result, the petition states, the plaintiff received lacerations near her right eye and on her left ear, rendering her unfit for work for three months.
